VOLUME CVII.--NO. 136. ALEXANDRIA, VA., WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 6, 1906. PRICE 2 CENTS.

Nature's Way Is Best.

The function strengthening and tissue building plan of treating chronic, lingering and obstinate cases of disease as pursued by Dr. Pierce, is following after Nature's plan of restoring health.

He uses natural remedies, that is extracts from native medicinal roots, prepared by processes wrought out by the expenditure of much time and money, without the use of alcohol, and by skillful combination in just the right proportions.

Used as ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Black Cherry-bark, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot and Stone root, specially exert their influence in cases of lung, bronchial and throat troubles, and this "Discovery" is, therefore, a sovereign remedy for bronchitis, laryngitis, chronic coughs, catarrh and kindred ailments.

The above native roots also have the strongest possible endorsement from the leading medical writers, of all the several schools of practice, for the cure not only of the diseases named above but also for indigestion, torpor of liver, or biliousness, obstinate constipation, kidney and bladder troubles and catarrh, no matter where located.

You don't have to take Dr. Pierce's say-so alone as to this; what he claims for his "Discovery" is backed up by the writings of the most eminent men in the medical profession. A request by postal card or letter, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little book of extracts from eminent medical authorities endorsing the ingredients of his medicines, will bring a little book free that is worthy of your attention if needing a good, safe, reliable remedy of known composition for the cure of almost any old chronic, or lingering malady.

The most valuable book for both men and women is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A splendid 1008-page volume, with engravings and colored plates. A copy, paper-covered, will be sent to anyone sending 21 cents in one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps.

The Old Episcopal High School in 1855

When Napoleon was a prisoner at St. Helena, Surgeon O'Mera asked him of what period of his life he retained the most vivid impressions. The caged eagle replied, "My school days."

The average man is like the great conqueror in that respect; the humble citizen may forget his relations, his wife and his debts, and retrospection will bring back to him his careless, happy school days.

"How beautiful is Youth, how bright it gleams
"With its illusions, aspirations, dreams.
"Book of beginning—Story without end
"Each made a heroine, each man a friend."

I visited recently in 1906 the Episcopal High School near Alexandria, the first time since I was enrolled as a pupil there in 1855; and amid the half-forgotten surroundings, old faces, old scenes that had impressed themselves on heart and brain came back clear and distinct, just as the "chiri abscuro," of the photographed plate takes color and outline and reveals slowly the picture that lies hid on the glass.

The school buildings were used by the federal troops during the civil war, and, sad to relate, all the records were destroyed.

I have been asked with others of the High School boys to give my recollections of the place, hence this article.

During my late visit the courteous and able principal Mr. Blackford, showed me all through the buildings, and I was struck with the perennial difference between the present and the "good old times" as they are called. Certainly if the pupils had to live as those boys of '55 did there would not be a student left.

In my days the boys were numbered just as convicts are. I was No. 59, and the teachers addressed me as such.

The dormitery on the top floor was one huge room, running the whole length of the building. The beds, or cots, were ranged side by side in rows about four feet apart. A calico curtain dropped between the couches. The trunks of the boys were shoved under the cots. At six o'clock in the morning the bell rang and the boys were given fifteen minutes in which to huddle on their clothes and hurry to the lavatory in the basement. When the time was up the luckless, lazy ones were locked up and deprived of their matin meal; a terrible hardship according to the boy with a healthy appetite. But none of the boys, to my knowledge, ever suffered, for Mrs. McGuire, the wife of the principal, was one of those women who comes as near to divinity as mortal can do in this world. The High School boys adored her; she was the personification of all that was gentle, lovable and tender. Her whole life was gemmed and jeweled with good acts; she was the guide, counsellor and comforter of all the homesick lads, and when they were ill it was she who nursed them with loving care. She reminded me of Mathew Arnold's description of Mary the Mother of Christ: "If thou wouldst fetch a thousand pearls from thy Arab ses, one would gleam brightest, best, the queenliest gem."

The lavatory was a long room with a double zinc trough running its entire length. There was plenty of soap and abundance of towels, but as there was no fire, it was, on a frosty morning, as cold a place as could be found outside of the Arctic regions. Faces were rubbed in a hurry, and I well remember that the hands of the youngsters were split and seamed by chilblains.

There were no accessories of the toilet to cause the boys to linger, and at the tap of the seven o'clock bell they filed into the school room where prayers were held. If those "young ideas" had any religion they did not display it, and as they blew on their frozen fingers and stamped their chilled feet, many thought (I know I did) that Hades could not be such a bad place after all.

At half past seven we marched into the large dining room. There were no furnaces in those days, and the stove, burning wood, heated the room only in spots. I recall the "corn dodgers" smoking hot, that warmed us outside and within. Then came an hour for recreation, and sometimes, Oh, woeful time to us small fellows, when the usher notified us that Mr. McGuire wanted to see us in his study. The chosen ones gathered together, and then started up stairs as fast as their limbs would carry them, They knew what that invitation meant. Mr. McGuire, or "Old Mac" as the boys were wont to call him, was not given to sending invitations to take morning tea with him, so the boys put on two or three extra jackets with sundry socks, woolen comforters or anything for stuffing that would deaden the whack of a good, tough hickory limb, for "Old Mac" struck hard, but "God who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb," had made him so near sighted that he couldn't see the disparity between a rotund body and a pair of splindle legs.

Mr. McGuire had evidently modeled the High School after the famous English Rugby and Eaton Academy. The scholars were numbered and the school was divided into forme. The fourth class was composed of youngsters like myself, none over ten years. The first class were boys who had attended the High School for three years or more. The English system of fags was carried out in a very modified form. Each coterie of young boys had its leader, always a first class boy, who saw that they received justice and fair play.

My squad was composed of Theodore Garnett, now a brilliant lawyer in Norfolk and formerly a gallant, dashing soldier on Jeb Stuart's staff. Wilmer Brown, son of Bishop Brown, and Ned Alexander, of Louisa, nicknamed "Cousin" because he was always bragging about the great feats of strength that relative could perform. According to Alexander that cousin was the "Bad Man" of the South and that all other "Terrors" got up and slid when he walked around.

The first form kids were the only ones subject to corporal punishment, and as it was "Old Mac's" only recreation and exercise before breakfast, he had plenty of athletics as an appetizer.

The fact of the business was, the school owed its success to its strict discipline. Most of the pupils were sons of wealthy planters, who were accustomed to having their own way at home, until they become a nuisance, and then were packed off to the High School where they soon had the nonsense taken out of them. It was soon found out that "Marse John," his mother's darling, heir to be of the great plantation, was plain Jack at the High School, and he had to fight his way up, and stand on his own merit.

The boys were taught, like the Spartan youths, "to ride, to shoot, to tell the truth," though many of them forgot their early training, in one particular at least.

The boys all, that is the younger ones, looked forward eagerly to the advent of Sunday. It was not, I am sorry to say, the prospect of forming in a long line, dressed in their uniforms, and wending their way like a mourners' procession to the Theological Seminary to hear a sermon of two hours' long. It was not, I regret to say, the rest, the peace, the calm content that the Sabbath invites. No, it was, if the truth must be told, that at Sunday supper there was a liberal supply of genuine cakes, and the younger set filled not only their stomachs, but their pockets also. Theo. Garnett was the hero of Sunday night; he had a pair of pants with pockets extending clean to his knees, and Theodore had to amble slowly to the "Boy's Parlor," accompanied by his affectionate squad, who never left him so long as he had a dollar—I mean a cake—left.

What old E. H. student of "ante bellum" era does not remember the "Boy's Parlor?" It was simply a small frame dwelling containing the one room. A large iron wood stove occupied the centre of the room, and three or four benches cut, nicked and carved, it seemed, by every penknife in the school.

This room was the boy's club, and here it was that all their schemes were concocted, all their grievances aired, and all the weekly fights arranged; and the ring was just outside.

The customs of Rugby, so far as Homeric combats were concerned, were carried out literally at the High School. The head boy was named Lynn. He had been at the school five years, and was the acknowledged leader.

Lynn was a great athlete and an accomplished scholar, and what he said "went." He was the umpire, and there were none to dispute his sovereignty. In fact Lynn was cock of the walk, and "the only pebble on the beach."

The boys' quarrels were settled in the good old English fashion, by a stand up fight—gouging, scratching and biting was barred. Every Saturday evening the boys would assemble behind the parlor, the ring was formed, and the juvenile Fitz, Sullivan and Jeffries would sail in and do as much damage as they could, illustrative of the moral maxim "it is better to give than to receive."

There was a fellow named Morson who had whipped everything in sight. I remember a fight he had with Willie Fowle once, that Lynn said was the best and most delightful he had ever seen at the High School. I remember Morson very well, for I owe to him a broken limb; but of that I will tell later on.

The teachers never interfered in these exercises, and if Mrs. McGuire, who bound up the bangs and bruises, ever mentioned them to her husband we never heard of it.

The policy of the High School, before the war, was to train the boys physically as well as mentally. Everything tending to luxury, ease and self indulgence was banished, and many a boy just entered felt like Nicholas Nickleby at Dotheboys Hall, but after they had become hardened and toughened they became proud of and devotedly attached to the old Alma Mater. Certainly the training they had fitted them admirably for the bivouac and camp, where all of them in a few years found themselves.

The uniform of the boys was a black jacket with bright buttons, and a small cap to the front of which were fastened the three letters, E. H. S., in German silver, fully an inch long. Whether it was the uniform or the airs assumed that embittered the boys of Alexandria I know not, but the minute a High School lad appeared on the streets of the old burg, the town boys would yell "eggs, hams and sausages," and then there would be a fight as sure as preaching. My! My! how many a combat have those old streets witnessed, and how much blood has sprinkled the pavements from bunged noses. As certain as a High School boy went to town in his uniform, as certain would he come back with his jaw swelled or eyes blackened. It got to be so serious that no boy could go to town without "Old Mac's" permission. But when messages would be sent them from the Lowlanders that they were afraid to come, then the Highlanders would organize, and stealthily leaving the hills would march down, just spoiling for a fight; and they got all they wanted.

There was a red-haired tough named Hall who had as choice a band of young ruffians as ever hurled defiance at a foe. They were called the "Blood Tubs," and every boy among them had made up his mind to be a pirate when he should grow up.

I recollect one Saturday evening about two score of us slipped out of the grounds to meet the "Blood Tubs," who had, so to speak, thrown down the gauntlet. When we reached the head of King street, where Doctor Addison once lived, we found the doughty Hall and his cohorts awaiting us. Hall shouted their battle cry, "Wade in lemons and he squeezed!" and came for us. We gave our college cry and met them half way. When Greek met Greek then came the tug of war. Their method was the same as that of "Pat," at Donnybrook fair: when you saw a head you hit it, or rather hit at it. It was rough and tumble, take and give, and yells "Nuff!" "Nuff!" if the pace was too hot. I don't remember much of the engagement, only that fellow Hall, leader of the "Blood Tubs," hit me in the mouth, which caused my lips to swell so that I couldn't go to church next day.

The battle was not fought to a finish, for a constable came on a run up the street and we followed his example and retreated up the pike, each boy bragging about what he had done so that it was a wonder that Hall and his "Blood Tubs" were not exterminated.

At nine o'clock the school began. On a dais sat the monarch of the E. H. S. He was a short, stout man, with a close trimmed beard and severe cast of countenance.

Supreme he sits: "Before his awful frown that bends his brows the boldest eye goes down." The principal, "Old Mac" inside the school and Dr. McGuire outside, were two very different persons. I learned that later and I found that a bigger, nobler heart never beat within a human breast. He consciously or unconsciously imitated the great Doctor Arnold of Rugby; seemingly a martinet, really a philanthropist, who tried to hide his benignity by wearing the mask of a tyrannical master.

Wednesdays and Saturdays were red letter days; half holidays and pay days.

There was one thing Mr. McGuire exacted from the parents when he entered a son in the school—that no money should be given the lad. A small supply left with the principal was all that was permitted. This was a wise provision, as it put all the boys on an equal footing, and kept the rich man's son out of mischief. Give the average boy a lot of money and if he is not of the Sanford and Merton type, who remember the heathen in their prayers and give their pocket money to the pagan, the A. B. will glide into devilment as naturally as a duck takes to water. But revenons a nos moutons.

Every Wednesday and Saturday afternoons we formed in line and received from the treasurer four three-cent silver pieces, and while it jingled in the boy's pocket it was not enough to make him wildly hilarious. It went for ginger pop and cakes, sold us by an old negro woman who had a cabin near the entrance gate. Old Aunt Sally did the boys' washing, and she used often to say she "surely knew how to make dem cakes." Well, they surely tasted good, even if they did smell of soap. The pop was three cents a bottle—cakes two for a cent. Two bottles of pop and three cents' worth of cakes would fill a boy so full that he couldn't croak.

The boys enjoyed their holidays very much as they do now, only the games and customs were different. In clear weather chasing the hare was the favorite pastime. The fleetest runner started out with a bag filled with paper torn into bits. He would go at a tearing pace and drop the paper as he ran, with the whole school on the hunt. Frequently the chase lasted for miles, for it was a rough, wild, uncultivated region around the High School a half century ago.

Bandy was the great game in my time, and baseball, as played now, was unknown. Marbles, too, was a favorite pastime, and Steptoe Nelson, afterwards connected with the college, was the best player. I can recall "Step," a slender, round-shouldered youth, with his pockets bulging out with marbles, and "Step" ought to have turned out a fine mathematician, for he was counting his marbles in school half the time. He would count from his pocket to his hat and from his hat to his pocket, his lips moving as if in dumb and secret prayer, and if the count did not balance "Step" would scratch his head, tousle his hair and go at it again. How kindly and affectionately my memory recalls him: so thoughtful, so sympathetic, so generous with the boys, so companionable with all; altogether he was the most popular boy in the school.

In those days there were no trashy paper-covered novels or flashy magazines. Harper's was the only magazine I ever saw in the hands of the pupils. There were many book worms in the school, but they read the good old English classics and the British Essayist was a prime favorite. There were no "yellow journals." The Alexandria Gazette, the Washington National Intelligencer and the Baltimore Sun were all the newspapers I remember having seen.

Who in these days of patent Argand burners, gas drop lights and mellowed electric lamps would take the trouble to read by a sperm candle? Yet that was what we used in those days and there was no complaint. We of the "upper ten," who read by a solitary sperm candle, pitied the boys in the boarding house who had to study their lessons by the light of a tallow dip.

The annual examinations were great affairs, many of the boys' parents coming by carriage from the southern states, often a journey of weeks or months, for there were no airline railroads running through the southern states at that time. But the rich planters had splendid horses, and where every house was opened to them, a jaunt from Alabama or the Carolinas was a very enjoyable affair.

The two months immediately preceding the examination were spent in hard study. The pride of the boys was aroused and they crammed all they knew how and every boy was willing to help another. The "exams" were always passed creditably. My boyish hopes of gaining a ribbon were doomed to disappointment, and this is how it happened. I referred to Morson before as having distinguished himself in the fistic ring. My recollection of him is of a tall, angular, double-jointed boy about sixteen years old. He was something of a tyrant and was continually getting into fights. He could hold his own against any boy in the school except Lynn.

One day, a few weeks before commencement, Marson had some words with Wilmer Brown and cuffed him soundly. Wilmer told his "pals" and we four went to Lynn and stated our case. Lynn saw Morson, who was very unruly; so Lynn told him that on Saturday evening he must fight the whole four of us, and as he was a big boy and the hero of a dozen frays and we were but slim, slight lads it would be a fair thing for him to tackle the quartette all at once, rough and tumble. Morson agreed and we four boys set to work at a day's notice. I don't remember whether or not we dieted or trained down fine in those twenty-four hours, but I am sure that neither Hector, before the battle with Achilles, or David, the night prior to the mill with Goliath, or Heenan, before he stood up to Sayers for the championship of the world, did more thinking or pass a more sleepless night than did each individual of our quartette.

The morning exercises passed like a dream, and after we had been paid off the whole crowd wended its way to the place of combat. There was no time lost. The boys formed a ring, the combatants removed their jackets, gritted their teeth and waited for the word. I have but a confused memory of that fight. I know that Morson laid us out one after another and that, like Anteus, when we struck Mother Earth we rose doubly strengthened and closed in and tried to throw the foe down. Just as I was arising from the melee Morson slung "Cousin" upon me. When he fell my leg caught the force of his body and snapped like a pipe-stem. I knew something dreadful had happened and Lynn saw it, too, and rushed in and stopped the fight.

I was carried into the principal's private house and laid upon a bed; then I remembered very little until Doctor Fairfax and Doctor Hoxton, two famous physicians who lived in Alexandria at that time, arrived; then it was discovered that both bones of my leg were broken. It was a clean fracture, but it kept me a prisoner two months. But I received such kindness and consideration from "Old Mac" and the boys that I was, on the whole, glad that the accident happened. I learned to love my erstwhile tyrant as much as I had formerly feared him.

Standing in the old hall once more it seemed for a brief moment as if my youth had returned to me. The students of that day are all around me; all my classmates of half a century ago greet me, and I hear the well-remembered voices and see the faces I used to love so well in the old-remembered school room. I half expect to hear the roll call and to answer "here" when No. 59 shall be called. Then with a start I awoke and the vision was gone.

All my old companions in their bright, radiant youth, with the world before them, with all that makes life happy, starting on life's journey with high hopes and aspirations, found within a few short years after that they must choose between duty, love, danger and death on one side and inglorious ease on the other. How they decided is best told by a marble tablet on which is inscribed the roll of honor of those E. H. S. boys who gave up their lives for their states. It contains sixty-one names.

A score or so of years ago their friends and relatives would have said as they read the names: "To die for a sentiment, how sad. To give up their young lives, useless, useless!" But we know today that honor and glory of life is not to be judged by the narrow standard of success. Arnold Wilkenreid, when he gathered the Austrian spears in his bosom; Bozzaris, when he fell smiting the followers of the Faithful; Robert Emmett, when he gave his life to a hopeless cause, accomplished more for humanity than in their wildest dreams they had ever imagined.

Jackson, the thunderbolt of war, failed; Lee, the master of strategy, failed, but when our children and our children's children and millions yet unborn gaze on the monoliths, headstones and shafts erected to those who died for their states they will say with throbbing heart, mantling cheek and softening eye, "They have not died in vain."

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 6, 1906.

AT LAST we have an authoritative statement as to the length of time required to build the Panama canal on the plan in favor with the present administration at Washington. Chairman Shonts declares it will take twelve years. But how, asks the Philadelphia Record, is this statement to be reconciled with the claim that the cost of completing the work will not exceed $140,000,000? The appropriations for the current year amount to over $26,000,000, and the work is not even in full blast. It would be fair to assume that when the steam shovels and dredges get into full swing the annual appropriations will be even larger. If $26,000,000 be a fair yearly average, however, twelve years' operations would cost over $300,000,000—more than twice the sum estimated.

THE GOVERNMENT'S ACTION against the Pabst Brewing Company, of Milwaukee, and several railroad companies was decided by the Circuit Court at Milwaukee Thursday. The case against Pabst was dismissed, but the Refrigerator Car Company and the railroads are enjoined from receiving or giving commissions for traffic controlled or from any other rebate devices. The court holds that when a company gives control of its shipments to another, the latter must be regarded as the owner and shipper of the freight, and so cannot accept rebates Many refrigerator and car companies are affected, and the freight broker is put out of business. The decision was unanimous, and means that the Elkins law is sound and enforceable.

KANSAS has had hard luck with her senators. One committed suicide, one resigned years ago to escape expulsion, one was defeated for re-election by evidence that he was buying votes, and still another had his election investigated by a Senate committee, which reported that bribery in his interest was proved, but it was not clear that he was a party to the bribery or that enough votes were bought to affect the result. And now there is Burton. For a State that boasts of more churches and schools per capita than any other State, and a smaller percentage of foreign-born than most other States have Kansas the Philadelphia Record says, has not established an enviable record in senatorial selections.

DR. LEWIS FRISSEL, attending physician to the Seton Hospital, at New York, claims to have isolated the germ of rheumatism. He says it looks a good deal like other disease microbes, but has a special affinity for the joints. Dr. Frissell thinks this is the real cause of the disease, which, however, may be brought on by exposure to dampness. He classes rheumatism as an infectious disease, which occurs in epidemic form. He attributes both pleurisy and rheumatism of the heart to the newly discovered germ. Now, having found this germ, what is he going to do with it?

THE National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis and the Association of American Physicians, both of which held meetings at Washington recently, now have joined forces to combat the spread of the white plague. Dr. John L. Morse, of Boston, said that consumption was one of the probable results of such diseases as measles, whooping cough and influenza. It was, he said, a nearly established fact that tuberculosis is not transmitted from parent to child. The belief, however, that it is, the doctor will find difficult to dislodge from the mind of the average layman.

THE DEATH of Senator Gorman has called forth a remarkable demonstration of sympathy at his home in Washington. More than 500 telegrams were received and expressions of regret are heard all over the country. Almost every member of the democratic national committee sent a message, and practically every United States Senator either called at the house or sent condolences. The funeral will take place at 11 a. m. tomorrow and will be simple. The pallbearers will be Senator Gorman's intimate friends and political associates in Maryland.

THE CONVENTION of the National Electric Light Association opened at Atlantic City yesterday. President W. H. Blood, jr., in his annual address, said that public ownership of utilities is proving a failure, both in England and in America. He stated that "the agitation is being kept alive by "yellow journals that pander to a sensational public."

THE Richmond Evening Journal printed a "Greater Richmond Edition" yesterday, which was made up of interesting reading matter and attractive illustrations.

From Washington.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
Washington, June 6.

President Roosevelt had received with great pleasure the reports from Chicago of the general cleaning up of the packing houses as a result of the publication of the Neill-Reynolds report and his message to Congress. Even if no other result should be accomplished, the President is of the opinion that this house-cleaning would amply repay all the time money and labor expended upon the recent investigation. The packing house lobby in Congress is much disturbed over the report that the President now has another investigation on foot and all kinds of efforts are being made to learn its scope and purpose. About all the lobbyists can learn, however, is that the report will deal with meat adulterations and poisons. This rumor, meager as it is, has scared some of the beef men into a state bordering on nervous prostration. The early passage of the Beveridge bill or a measure carrying substantially the same provisions will probably be the direct result of the "scare" administered, if the President's friends are competent prophets. A violent shake up in the Agricultural Department is expected as a result of the packing house exposure. The fact that the terrible conditions of filth and disease have been allowed to continue and grow for years right under the noses of the government inspectors is, in the President's eyes, pretty good proof that the officials of the Bureau of Animal Industry stationed at Chicago, are either woefully incompetent or negligent. In either event the President believes they are no longer fit men for the jobs. When the President first heard of the charges against the packers he requested the department to investigate, and the men detailed to this work returned a most roseate report of the conditions in Packingtown. Everything was sweet, clean, sanitary and ideal, and there was no cause for either criticism or alarm. The revelations made by Messrs. Neill and Reynolds were so greatly to the contrary that the President feels that both the Secretary of Agriculture and himself have been imposed upon. Hence the prospect for an overhauling of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

President Roosevelt attended the commencement exercises of the National Cathedral School this morning and made an address to the graduates which was just as good as a sermon to the grown-ups present. Miss Ethel Roosevelt, the President's younger daughter, is a pupil at the school and today marched in the procession of white-garbed little ladies and sang in the chorus. The President was introduced to the audience by Right Rev. Henry Y. Satterlee, the Bishop of Washington. Character was the theme of the President's talk; the duties of every day life rather than the spectacular achievements performed at great crises. Upbuild that character, and the daily self sacrifices, willingly given for those we love, more than all other molding processes help to beautify the man and woman.

A squad of Panama statesmen reached Washington today and called on Secretary of War Taft. They consist of four representatives of the so-called liberal party of the Panama republic and had a great deal to say concerning the elections which are to take place the latter part of the month. They claim that the conservative party, headed by President Amador, and now in control, have matters all "fixed" so that it will not be possible for the liberals to win the election, although the latter are said to outnumber the conservatives. This delegation comes to Washington to ask the United States to make Amador hand out a "square deal." Dr. Pable Arosemena, the head of the liberals, is the chief member of the delegation. Accompanying him are Generals Diaz and Porras, and Dr. Morales. The statement is made by Dr. Arosemena that there is no disposition on the part of the liberals to foment trouble should they be defeated at the polls. They would insist, however, on their constitutional rights being preserved. Secretary of War Taft received the delegation very cordially and made an appointment to discuss with them very thoroughly the political situation in Panama with particular reference to the complaint of the liberals that the conservatives, now in power, are using their present exalted positions to perpetuate themselves in power.

Officials of the Agricultural Department say that there is absolutely no warrant for the charge made by Representative Ellerbe, of South Carolina, that the cotton figures issued Monday were manipulated and that they show an acreage much heavier than that actually planted. It is stated that the utmost care was taken in the collection and tabulation of the statistics, and that any material error is out of the question. On account of the frequency of such charges, the officials are inclined to believe that there is a disposition on the part of certain persons interested in the cotton market to worry the department unnecessarily in the hope that figures more acceptable to them may be given out.

The packers had their inning before the House committee on agriculture today. Thomas E. Wilson, of Nelson Morris & Co., but representing all the large Chicago packers in this matter, appeared before the committee and read a carefully prepared statement. He invited the committee to visit Chicago for a week at least and make a personal investigation. There is a possibility that the invitation will be accepted. Wilson made his statement in the presence of Charles P. Neill, colaborator on the Neill-Reynolds report; Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, and Chief Melvin, of the bureau of animal industry.

Representative Babcock, of Wisconsin, former chairman of the republican congressional committee, said today that he will go to New York city and appear before the grand jury investigating insurance company campaign contributions. "I have not been subpoened," Mr. Babcock declared, "Mr. Jerome has wired me asking my attendance. The only information I have is that the Mutual Company gave the committee $2,500. That information has been brought out. I will go to New York City, as soon as possible. I cannot go today owing to my wife's illness."

Announcement was made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Senator Winthrop Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, to Miss Josephine Boardman, one of the most intimate friends of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, and sister of Miss Mabel Boardman President of the National Red Cross Association. Senator Crane although comparatively new to the Senate, has already taken a prominent place in the counsels of that body.

News of the Day.

Objection in the Senate indicates that the railroad rate bill will be sent back to conference The House yesterday passed the naturalization bill. The Senate passed the naval appropriation bill, carrying a total of $103,117,670.

"Anti-Brownlow" republicans of the First Tennessee district yesterday nominated A. A. Taylor for Congress against Mr. Brownlow, who was recently renominated. Mr. Taylor is a brother of former Gov. Robert L. Taylor, the democratic Senatorial nominee in Tennessee.

The accouchement of the Crown Princess Frederick William of Prussia, is expected daily. Prayers continue to be said in the churches in her behalf. Orders have been issued that 101 guns are to be fired from a battery if the Princess give birth to a son and 72 guns if she is delivered of a daughter.

In a terrible explosion following a fire in the four-story brick building occupied as a dyeing works and the homes of two families at 503 west Fifty-fifth street, New York, last night, a woman and a man were killed, another man was probably fatally injured, and about fifteen others were more or less seriously burned and injured.

Mrs. Croning, wife of W. P. Croning, of Cambridge, Mass., was killed and Mr. Croning and several of his children were injured in a grade crossing accident at West Peabody yesterday. A train on the Boston and Maine Railroad struck the automobile in which the Croning family were touring. All the occupants of the vehicle were tossed high in the air, while fragments on the automobile were hurled 200 feet from the scene.

The national convention of the Knights of Columbus began its business sessions in New Haven, Conn., yesterday. The convention opened after the delegates had attended a pontifical mass in St. John's Church, at which Cardinal Gibbons presided. Many of the best-known Catholic churchmen in the country were present. The service lasted nearly three hours, after which the delegates returned to their hall, and after a short interval were called to order by Supreme Knight Edward L. Hearn.

The Navy Department yesterday received news of the drydock Dewey, through the commander of the towing fleet dated Colombo, June 5.—"Glacier parted company from the drydock Tuesday morning early. Telegram received by wireless. Position flotilla 5° 35′ north latitude, 79° degrees east longitude, Tuesday noon. Progressing favorably at three and one-half knots per hour. Fair weather encountered during the voyage Had no trouble, and it is estimated that will touch for coal and supplies at Singapore about June 21. Will sail as soon as ready Wednesday afternoon."

Fred Percival was killed and Fred Schneider was fatally wounded in a brutal ambuscade at Springville, Erie county, N. Y., yesterday. According to present reports, the two men were shot down in cold blood by a man who jumped suddenly from behind a string of freight cars, fired half a dozen shots at them, and then ran away. Peter Harber has been arrested, and the authorities are looking for Martin Harber, his brother. Before Percival died, it is said, he made a statement, in which he claimed "Harber did it," but which Harber he did not say. Peter Harber denied any knowledge of the affair.

John W. Harrison, engineer on the Southern Railway's Washington-Memphis vestibule, died at his post of duty within one mile of the station in Knoxville, Tenn., yesterday afternoon. Rounding a sharp curve, he saw a freight train standing on the track ahead. Though his firemen jumped, Harrison remained at his post, reversed his engine, turned on the air, and died instantly when the crash came. The result of his fidelity to duty was that passengers in the rear coaches of his train scarcely knew that there had been a collision. Several freight cars were badly torn up, and the tracks at the scene were blocked for three hours.

Garland F. White, who owns a number of groceries in the southern part of Chicago, and is wealthy, was made defendent yesterday in a novel breach of promise suit. The suit was brought by his divorced wife, Mrs. Gertrude White. Mrs. White obtained a divorce last fall, and in her suit, which was filed yesterday, she alleges that White made fervid love to her during the winter and spring, and that she finally consented to a remarriage. Last week White was married to Miss Ella Cushing, who was cashier in one of his stores, and Mrs. White promptly brought suit against her former husband for breach of promise, claiming damages to the amount of $25,000.

For the information of President E. H. Harriman and Traffic Director J. C. Stubbs, of the Southern Pacific, General Passenger Agent James Horsburgh and Assistant Passenger Agent Paul Shoup have had a census taken of the persons in the camps of San Francisco. It shows that on June 1, 13,088 persons were in the permanent camps and 29,533 in the temporary camps. It also shows that on June 1 rations were supplied 41,236 persons and free meal tickets given 9,159 persons. The reports cites that there are 2,288 persons in the Oakland and Alameda camps, and that on May 31 rations were issued to 10,244 persons in Oakland, Alameda and Berkley. In Los Angeles there are 600 San Francisco refuges, in Sacramento 120, in Vallejo 213 and in Stockton 36.

Severe Storms.

A storm that approached a cloudburst in severity struck Cincinnati and vicinity yesterday afternoon. In the first seven minutes one-fifth of an inch of water fell. In half an hour came a second and greater downpour. The blowing in of a window and subsequent flooding of a part of the operating room of the Western Union Telegraph Company on the fifteenth floor of the Ingalls building, compelled the cutting out of the batteries, and for more than half an hour Cincinnati was cut off from communication with the rest of the world as far as Western Union wires were concerned.

Terrific electric storms, accompanied with much thunder, in Pittsburg, Pa., that continued throughout yesterday, deluged the streets of the city and caused many thousands of dollars damage by lightning, tied up the street car traffic for a time and frightened many residents of the east end, where the storm was the most severe.

Virginia News.

Mrs. Lydia Smith Gibson, wife of John H. Gibson, for many years the clerk of the County Court of Clarke county, died Monday night at her home, at Berrys Ferry, Clarke county.

Samuel McKowen, a Norfolk carpenter, was arrested Monday night at the Union Mission for flogging with a heavy cord and threatening to kill his 16-year-old daughter, Mary. He was fined $50 and costs in the police court yesterday morning

The closing exercises of the Eastern College, at Front Royal, took place last night in the college chapel. The oration was delivered by Dr. John H. Latane, of Washington and Lee University, followed by the conferring of degrees and the president's address.

A. W. Barksdale died suddenly last night in his room at the Old Normandie Hotel, in Danville. He was about 58 years of age and was born in Halifax county. He had been a resident of Danville for the past 20 years, and was a tobacconist.

The Southern Railway will build a branch road between Holland, a town on the Southern, to Whaleyville, a town on the Atlantic Coast Line, for combined passenger and freight service. The branch road will be known as the Holland-Whaleyville Division.

The Petersburg city council yesterday evening referred to the finance committee a resolution requesting Judge J. M. Mullen, of the Corporation Court, to appoint a police justice, which, if done, will do away with the present system of trying all police court cases before the mayor. The salaries of the city engineer and the health officer were increased to $1,300 and $1,200 respectively.

The remains of Mrs. Elizabeth Cabell Bentley and her daughter, Miss Sarah Bentley, who died in Baltimore Thursday, were taken to Leesburg Saturday and interred in Union Cemetery. Mrs Bentley was the widow of Robert Bentley, formerly of Leesburg, and was about eighty years of age at the time of her death, which was due to paralysis. Only a few hours intervened between the expiration of mother and daughter, the latter dying on Thursday of consumption.

Searching For Anarchists.

The detectives in Italy as a result of a clue found in Ancona, are raiding the houses of anarchists throughout the country. They searched several houses in Naples last night, and seized inflammatory newspapers, a quantity of correspondence and photographs. Two suspicious characters were arrested.

The police have failed to locate or identify a woman disguised as a nun who was known to have mysteriously visited a certain house that they found empty. The surveillance of passengers arriving from America by way of Marseilles has increased.

It has not been decided whether the King will make his visit to Ancona as he had intended. It appears that it will depend upon the result of the investigation now in progress, although the existence of an anarchist plot there is certain.

The Spanish government is convinced that Morales had no accomplices. The autopsy in his case revealed nothing abnormal. The brain was perfectly formed and the convolutions were clearly marked. The frontal lobes were prodigiously developed. The amount of gray matter in the brain was normal.

The director of the Modern School, most professors of which are anarchists, has been arrested. Several of the professors have also been arrested on charges of being implicated with Morales.

According to a dispatch from Vienna printed in the London Daily Telegraph yesterday morning, the Italian police learned that Italian anarchists living at Paterson, N. J., decided upon an attempt of the life of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy at the opening of the Milan exposition and dispatched one of their number to make the attempt. This anarchist, the correspondent relates, was followed through England, France and Switzerland and arrested the moment he set foot on Italian soil at Como. But the whole affair was kept secret from the public. It further appears, the dispatch says, that all the European governments were informed that Paterson anarchists had plotted the assassination of three sovereigns. It was this that led to the discovery of bombs at Ancona and of a plot against King Victor Emmanuel.

Conditions in Russia.

Like wildfire the revolutionary spirit is spreading among the peasants in Russia. In some provinces owners of vast estates, alarmed over the agitation, are trying to sell their land at any price. The movement in Tula province is assuming a threatening phase. A collision occurred at Voronegh between rural guards and peasants who were annexing land belonging to local capitalists. Two guards were killed. In the vicinity of Mohileff the rural guards, who are in sympathy with the peasants, are refusing to obey the orders of their superiors.

The south Russian harvest promises to be the most abundant in the last 20 years. There is some anxiety as to whether sufficient labor will be available as in consequence of the precarious political situation the garrison commanders have issued instructions that the army reserve men shall not be allowed this year to hire themselves to the farmers. In many districts the landowners are alarmed at the peasants' threats to strike as soon as the crops are ready to cut.

The extent to which socialistic theories have taken possession of the proletariat is evidenced by the agrarian programme adopted by the radical peasant workmen group in the lower house of parliament, which aims ultimately not only at the complete nationalization of land with its attendant total abolition of private property, but the socialization of the industry.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and useless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give you One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggies, 75c.

Today's Telegraphic News

Railroad Rate Case.

[Special Dispatch to the Alexandria Gazette.]

Richmond, Va., June 6.—Mr. H. B. Spencer, general manager Southern Railway, on the stand in the rate case, is making a fine witness for the company. Mr. Braxton will take him on the cross-examination later. Mr. Spencer's testimony is along the line that the Southern handles local freight at a loss in Virginia and especially on branch lines, in some instances spending $1.29 to make $1. The witness thought the lowering of rates would be a great hardship on his company.

Attempt to Rob a Woman.

New York, June 6.—A man who gave his name as Robert Fairbanks of No. 278 Plain street, Newark, N. J., is under arrest here charged with having attacked and attempted to rob Mrs. Jeanette Curtis, of No. 215 east Tenth street, in a room in the Parker House early this morning. The woman, who was well dressed and who claims to be married and the mother of a small son, accompanied the man to the hotel. She told the police: "We had hardly got into the room before he demanded my diamonds and money, and then he began striking me with the blackjack which he carried in his pocket. I agreed not to scream if he would not hurt me, and he stopped beating me and began taking my jewels and money. In some way I managed to get to the door and scream. Then he attacked me again, and beat me until I was unconscious." The woman's scream was heard by the hotel clerk, and he called the police. The door was broken open and the policemen saw the man with the black jack in hand, standing over the unconscious and bleeding woman. Not until the police had used their clubs did the man submit to arrest. Man and woman were taken to the west Thirtieth street station. The woman revived and told her story. She was suffering from scalp wounds and wounds about the face and body and was sent to a hospital. Fairbanks did not look like a thug, and at the station house nothing suspicious but the black jack was found upon him. He refused to talk about himself or give any explanation of his conduct.

Propose to Colonize Palestine.

Berlin, June 6.—At the annual conference of the German Zionist Association at Hanover a resolution was adopted by a two-thirds majority vote to initiate an energetic movement for the colonization of Palestine by Jews. Hitherto Zionists have labored under the delusion that it would be possible to obtain territory in Palestine for the establishment of an independent Jewish State, which afterwards could be colonized by Jews. It is far preferable to colonize Palestine first and then when the Jews own the land and form a majority of the population it will be time enough to consider taking steps to procure an autonomous government. German Zionists have resolved to abandon theretical Zionism, and favor practical Zionism. They will invite Zionists of all other countries to co-operate with them is accomplishing the speedy, practical colonization of Palestine. It is hoped that American Zionists particularly will take an active part in the new movement.

William and Francis Joseph.

Vienna, June 6.—Kaiser William arrived here this morning for his visit to Emperor Francis Joseph. There is no momentous political significance in his visit, and it is unlikely that any important speeches will be delivered during his stay in Austria. The Kaiser, however, is anxious to thank Francis Joseph for the support given Germany at the Algeciras conference on Moroccan affairs and to dissipate the effect of his maladroit telegram to foreign minister Golnchoowski, which caused so much comment. The present visit of the German ruler is semi-private. In order to avoid any demonstrations, which might prove offensive to Italy, the Kaiser crossed the town in the underground railway instead of driving in a carriage.

Preparing for the Longworths.

London, June 6.—Whitlaw Reid, the United States Ambassador, is preparing a great round of festivities for the entertainment of Mr. and Mrs Longworth, during their stay in London. The chief event will be a dinner on June 12, when King Edward and other royalties will be present. King Edward has expressed a wish to meet the President's daughter and will be given an opportunity at this time. The dinner will be the most noteworthy affair of the season. No expense will be spared in the preparations for the event. Caruso, Madame Eames and other soloists of the Convent Garden opera have been engaged to sing at the dinner, notwithstanding the large figure at which they estimated their services.

More Evidence of Graft

Philadelphia, June 6.—Additional evidence of graft among Pennsylvania Railroad officials developed at today's Interstate Commerce Commission coal hearing, when Chief Inquisitor William Glasgow, jr., called J. R Boyer, chief clerk to the general superintendent of motive power at Altoona, and under a merciless questioning showed that Boyer was getting money in all directions from coal companies. Glasgow showed a marvelous familiarity with the witness's operations and Boyer in his willingness to admit his acceptance of rake-off even produced memoranda to refresh his memory as to the companies he had taken money from.

The Agrarian Problem.

St. Petersburg, June 6.—Another scheme for the solution of the agrarian problem with which the Douma has been wrestling ever since the House was assembled was offered today by members of the labor party in the Douma Their plan is to entrust all the agrarian difficulties to local committees which shall be elected by the people of the various localities in which they are to officiate. There were numerous protests today against the slowness with which the Douma is proceeding with its work. The labor bill was passed on its first reading today.

A Western Wonder

There's a Hill at Bowie, Tex., that's twice as big as last year. This wonder is W. L. Hill, who from a weight of 90 pounds has grown to over 180. He says: "I suffered with a terrible cough, and doctors gave me up to die of Consumption. I was reduced to 90 pounds, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Now, after taking 12 bottles, I have more than doubled in weight and am completely cured," Only sure Cough and Cold cure. Guaranteed by E. S. Leadbeater & Sons', Druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Knights of Columbus.

New Haven, Conn., June 6.—Today, the biggest day of the Knights of Columbus national convention, dawned cloudy, but cleared toward noon. Hundreds of visitors came to the city today to witness the dedication of the magnificent new building, which is to be the future home of the order.

The convention settled down for business this morning at 9:30; the sessions are behind closed doors. The committee on credentials reported 143 out of 145 members of the convention present, the only absentees being from councils in Mexico and Manitoba.

The convention adjourned late for dinner and the members spent the afternoon at the dedicatory ceremonies which were held on the green opposite the new building. A huge platform erected and decorated for the occasion held several hundred guests and notables.

The following were among those on the platform, when, at 1:30, the assemblage was greeted with an overture from Colt's band of Hartford: Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Michael Tierney, of Hartford; Mayor Studely, of New Haven; Hon. John M. Gearin, United States Senator from Oregon; Lieut. Gov. R. M. Woodruff, of Conn.; Hon. Morgan J. O'Brien, New York Supreme Court; Hon Victor J. Dowling, New York; and President Hadley of Yale.

Daniel J. Prendergast, chairman of the committee, in a brief speech delivered the keys of the new building to Supreme Knight, Edward L. Hearn, who accepted them in an appropriate speech.

After the singing of the hymn, "Holy God we praise Thy name," by a chorus, an address was delivered by Hon. Victor J. Dowling.

Judge Morgan J. O'Brien delivered the oration of the day.

Tonight the grand banquet for the invited guests and the national council will be served in Music Hall.

Pennsylvania Republicans.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 6.—The republican State convention to nominate candidates for state officers was called to order by Chairman Andrews at 10.30 this morning. There was a contest in the Fifth district, and upon motion the convention decided that each of the contesting delegates should have a vote. When the name of Hon. Boies Penrose as a delegate of the Fifth ward were read, the convention broke into a storm of applause and hisses. The names of David Martin and Davis Lane was received with cheers. There is little doubt that the republican State convention will nominate the ticket which was "slated" yesterday, that is, for governor, Edwin S. Stuart, of Philadelphia; lieutenant governor, Robert S. Murphy, of Cambria; auditor general, Robert K. Young, of Tioga, Secretary of Internal Affairs, Henry House, of Lebanon. Notwithstanding the hot protests of the other candidates at an indignation meeting last night, the slate remains intact this morning, and it will be adopted and endorsed unless the opposition shall develop unexpected strength in the convention. It seems that Senator Penrose has the majority of the delegates and that he will be able to deliver the goods. Waters has given up the fight, but his name will go before the convention. There has developed no serious opposition to the rest of the ticket as named.

The platform which was adopted endorses President Roosevelt, upholds the railway rate bill, the inspection of meat and the protective tariff.

The Plot Against Alfonso.

Madrid, June 6.— Further investigation of all the movements of Manuel Morales, the would-be assassin of King Alfonso previous to the time he threw the bomb at the king and queen, shows that Morales planned to kill Alfonso while the wedding ceremony was in progress Morales had begged an invitation to the wedding from a Catalonian Congressman, who promised it to him without thinking of the purpose Morales had in his visit to the church. Eventually, however, the Congressman gave the ticket intended for Morales to a high official. It was also learned that Morales shadowed Alfonso for some time previous to making the attempt against the king's life, watching the young ruler on all the walks he took. It has been ascertained that Morales was assisted by four accomplices and their arrest is said to be imminent.

Fo Further Trouble.

Dillonvale, O., June 6.—It has rained almost incessantly since the troops arrived here yesterday and but little progress has been made in establishing camps. The companies are living in cars. With no prospects ahead for active service, the soldiers are a disgruntled lot. The United States Coal Company has released its force of guards. The troops are now protecting the mining property. Strike breakers were sent into the Bradly mine this morning to put it in shape for working Friday Quietness prevails throughout the district There are five Maxim guns and thousands of rounds of ammunition in the hands of the twelve hundred soldiers on the scene.

Preparing to Receive Mr. Bryan.

New York, June 6.—W. M. Hoge, president of the Commercial Travelers League, who has charge of the reception to be tendered to William Jennings Bryan upon his arrival from Europe, announced today the appointment of Governor Jos Folk of Missouri as chairman of the reception committee. The arrangements for the reception of the former candidate are proceeding smoothly and there has been a rush of local politicians and others to identify themselves with the welcoming ceremonies.

Invite Inspection.

Chicago June 6.—The packers' association today published a full page avertisement inviting persons to visit their plants and see the processes of preparing food products. Since Monday morning men have worked day and night to remedy evils exposed by the Neill-Reynolds report.

Garrison Attached.

Cairo, Egypt, June 6.—Word was received here is to the effect that a native tribe has attached the garrison of Talodi. Forty Egyptians were killed during the battle. A force of British soldiers has now been sent in pursuit of the tribesmen.

Automobile Contest.

Berlin, June 6.—One hundred and thirty three cars started today in the automobile contest for the Herkomer trophy at Frankfort-on-Main, the car of Herr Schloer managing director of the Morot Cab Company, of Munich, who was acting as controller of the race, over turned near Eskirchen, killing Schloer.

Wedding

Auburn, Me., June 6.—Garrett A. Hobart, of Patterson, N. J., son of the late Vice President Hobart, and Miss Caroline Frye Briggs, daughter of F. N. Briggs, of Auburn, and granddaughter of Senator William P. Fyre, will be married at the Briggs residence at 8 o'clock this evening. Only immediate relatives of the couple will be present and there will be no reception after the quiet wedding.

Election to be Investigated

Paris, June 6.—The validity of Count Boni de Castellane's recent re-election to the Chamber of Deputies is to be investigated. A controversy has arisen as to the regularity of his election, and a contest has been inaugurated.

New York Stock Market.

New York, June 6.—There have been sides to the market trading so far today, consisting of room traders and bear operators to depress prices, while at the same time the strongest banking interests and houses identified with the movement of important properties were buyers of many stocks for special reasons. The main point on which the traders base their bear position is a belief that this session of Congress will drag on late in the summer and in addition to this there was a revival of rumors about the success of the Paris loan.

Wielded Hat Pins.

Edward Ralston, of Eldersridge, near Kittanning, Pa., is dying from a stab with a hat pin, received while separating two girls who were quarreling over the result of a ball game in which partisan feeling ran high Monday. The game was between two teams from neighboring towns, and after the game the girl supporters of the defeated team attempted to take the colors away from the adherents of the victors. It was while separating two of the combatants that Ralston received the stab wound. It is not known who wielded the weapon, and physicians say Ralston cannot recover.

Because he tried to push her off the sidewalk, so she alleged, Beatrice Grandy eleven-years-old, drove a hat pin through the back and into the lung of George T. Derby, jr., aged ten, the son of John T. Derby, sr., of 430 Olney road, Gheut, near Norfolk. The boy has had a hemorrhage, and probably will die from the effects of the wound. Beatrice and her sister Rosa, aged fourteen, who was with her when she stabbed the boy, were arrested for the crime. They were held in $3,000 bonds until June 15, to await the result of the boy's injury.

A Croquet Party

The lawn of Mr. Frank T. Nevitt's residence, at Accotink, presented quite an attractive picture on the 30th of May.

A unique croquet party was given by his sister-in-law, Miss Louise M. Cox, to her neighborhood friends in honor of her sister, Miss W. Ann Cox, of Washington, D. C.

As a reminder of the day, the ladies' heads were adorned by fancy hats and they were attired in corresponding costumes.

The successful players were Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Nevitt, Miss Lizzie Meade and Mr. Ewell Nevitt and Miss W. Ann Cox and Mr. Philip Meade

Among those present were Mr. Robert G Nevitt and Mr. Wm. Cox. The players were Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Nevitt, Miss Lizzie Meade and Mr. Ewell Nevitt, Miss Georgia Claggett and Mr. Kary Hill, Miss Nellie Nevitt and Mr. Wickliffe Claggett, Miss Sarah Ward, and Mr. Doddridge C. Nevitt, Miss W. Ann Cox and Mr. Philip Mead, Miss Louise M. Cox and Mr. Richard Claggett. Supper was served at eight o'clock, one which might well have pleased the taste of an epicurean.

AN OBSERVER.

OTTERBURN LITHIA WATER.—We are agents fo this celebrated Lithia Water and keep constantly on hand a full and fresh supply. WARFIELD & HALL, Corner Prince and Fairfax streets.

Alexandria Gazette

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 6, 1906.

Local Matters.

Sun and Tide Table.

Sun rises tomorrow at 4:34 a. m. and sets at 7:23 p. m. High water at 7:29 a. m. and 8:02 p. m.

Weather Probabilities.

For this section partly cloudy tonight. Thursday showers; light to fresh south to southwest winds.

Severe Storm.

There was a severe electrical storm shortly before two o'clock this afternoon which was accompanied by some hail and thunder and lightning. The storm was especially severe in the southwestern section of the city, where trees were blown down and limbs twisted from others. Several chimneys in the same vicinity were blown down. During the progress of the storm lightning struck the electric lamps at Gibbon and Columbus and Franklin and Fairfax streets. One of the chimneys on the public school building on the south side of Wolfe street, between St. Asaph and Washington, was blown down, and a portion of the roof of Washington school building, on Washington street, damaged. The cupola on the colored school building on south Pitt street was blown off as was the trap door of the Paff Shoe Factory. Several telegraph, telephone and electric poles in different sections were blown down. The mercury fell 11° in about 10 minutes.

The severity of the storm in the northern and central parts of the city was not felt.

Weddings.

As has heretofore been stated, Dr. Martin D. Delaney, of this city, and Miss Catherine Frances O'Donoghue, of Georgetown, were married in Holy Trinity Catholic Church in that place on Monday. The wedding was exclusive, only the immediate members of the families being present The ceremony was performed by Rev. Martin O'Donoghue, a brother of the bride, while Dr. John A. O'Donoghue acted as best man. The bride was given away by her brother, Daniel W. O'Donoghue. The bride, who is a graduate of the Visitation Convent and one of Georgetown's most attractive and cultured young ladies, was gowned in a handsome broadcloth traveling suit, and wore a diamond brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. After a wedding dinner served at the home of the bride the newly married couple left for Boston by sea for a stay of several weeks in New England, after which they will reside in this city.

Mr. Andrew Underwood and Miss Sallie Adams were married last night at the home of the former by Rev. Mr. Bulls.

Death of David Meade.

Capt. David Meade, who had been in feeble health for some time, died at his home at White Post, Clarke county, at 4 o'clock this morning. The deceased was in his 74th year. Captain Meade was a prosperous farmer of Clarke county, where he had resided throughout life, enjoying the respect and confidence of all who knew him. At the breaking out of the civil war he was a member of the Millwood Rifles (Second Virginia Regiment, Stonewall Brigade). He later became captain and followed the fortunes of the Confederacy from Bull Run to Appomattox. In December, 1865, he married Miss Nannie Snowden, daughter of the late Edgar Snowden. Captain Meade at one time represented Clarke county in the House of Delegates of Virginia. The deceased was a brother of the late Judge N. B. Meade, of this city.

Transfers.

The schooner Bertha May has been sold by her owner, Walter T. Jackson, to Levi Leedman. The transfer has been recorded in the custom houses at Baltimore and Alexandria. The Bertha May is a schooner of thirty-seven tons burden, is fifty-nine and one-half feet long and was built at Dorchester county, in Maryland, in 1876. She hails from this port.

The transfer of the steamer Queen Anne from the Queen Anne Ferry and Equipment Company of Baltimore to the Washington and Potomac Steamboat Company of Washington has been recorded in the custom house at Baltimore and also in the Georgetown custom house.

Suit Entered.

Charles W. Rixey, through his attorney, Howard W. Smith, has entered suit in the Circuit Court for Alexandria County against the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Railway Company for damages in the sum of $2,000. Mr. Rixey alleges that his horse was frightened by one of the cars of the defendent company near Waterloo, causing the animal to run away and collide with a Washington-Southern train. The horse was killed, the vehicle demolished and Mr. Rixey was injured, according to the declaration.

Kindergarten.

The Alexandria Free Kindergarten Association held its monthly meeting last evening, at which the election of officers for the following year took place as follows: Mrs. E. R Stabler, president; Mr. Worth Hulfish, vice-president; Miss E. C. McKnight, secretary, and Mr. Robert Jones, treasurer. The following subscriptions were received: Mr. Muir, $2; Mrs. Geo. R. Hill, $4; Mr. Samuel H. Lunt, $1, and Miss Laura King, $1.

Flower Mission Day.

The ladies of the Womans' Christian Temperance Union will observe flower mission day tomorrow. Members of the union will meet at the house of Mrs. Huffman, 414 Franklin street, at 10 o'clock a. m. Donations of flowers are requested, The business meeting will be held at Mrs. Huffman's at 3 o'clock p. m. of that day. The regular prayer meeting will be held at the Childrens' Home at 8 o'clock.

Ceremony Postponed.

There will be no corner-stone laying by the Masons at Manassas tomorrow as had been announced, the ceremony having been indefinitely postponed. The late Robert Portner, who was a member of the fraternity, left $5,000 to the Masons of Manassas, and there will be a change in the proposed building as well as site.

There was a refreshing rain at the close of yesterday.

More Arrests in Curtin Murder Case.

Late this afternoon, at the instance of Commonwealth's Attorney Brent, Stephen Davis, Harry Meeks, Annie Fischer and Lillian Blair, better known generally by the name of "Three fingered Lil," were locked up at police headquarters in connection with the Curtin murder, which occurred the latter part of last December.

Geo. W. Cole, a riverman, from whom the information leading to the arrests was obtained, is also held at police headquarters as a witness and it is understood that other arrests will follow.

It was stated at police headquarters that several of those under arrest are wanted as witnesses and others are believed to be parties to the crime, but that the murderer is yet to be apprehended. It is expected that his arrest will be accomplished before tonight.

"Jack" Ryan is now held in the city jail in connection with Curtin's death and it is generally believed that he can throw considerable light on the subject, though he has consistently protested that he was not in the Lee street section on the night Curtin was killed.

Police Court.

[Justice H. B. Caton presiding.]

The following cases were disposed of last night:

Llewellyn Lane, colored, arrested by Officer Bell charged with disorderly conduct, was fined $2 50.

Ella Jackson, colored, arrested by Officer Beach for drunken and disorderly conduct, was fined $5.

Philip Washington, colored, arrested by Officers Bettis and Nicholson charged with stabbing Esau Redd, with a knife, was turned over to his parents for correction.

Viola Fleet, arrested by Officer Knight charged with abusive language and destroying property of Eva Baker, was fined $10.

The only case on the docket this morning was that of a white man who had been arrested by Officer Garvey charged with assaulting his wife. The accused was dismissed.

Personal.

Mr. Joseph S. Grimes and wife have removed to their handsome new home on Braddock Heights.

Former Councilman John H. Trimyer, who is now connected with the Washburn-Crosby Milling Company, with headquarters in South Carolina, has returned South after a short visit to his family at Braddock Heights.

Mr. George C. Wedderburn, formerly of this city, but now of Baltimore, was in the city today.

Mr. A. T. Schoeni left this morning to visit his brother in Michigan whom he has not seen in 45 years. Mr. Schoeni is a native of Switzerland.

Federation of Labor.

The State Federation of Labor, which convened in this city yesterday, continued its session today. The delegates will visit the glass factories tonight.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The Woman's Home Mission Society of the M. E. Church South will hold a rummage sale at 216 Prince street from the 6th to 13th instant. Donations of clothing or furniture will be gratefully accepted.

Mrs. A. C. Weech held two enthusiastic temperance meetings in Nelson county last Sunday. In the morning she spoke in the Baptist Church at Jonesboro, and organized a W. C. T. U. at Rose Union in the afternoon.

The cannonading heard shortly before ten o'clock last night was the result of a searchlight drill at Forts Washington and Hunt, about six miles below this city. The lights were turned on the river and the cannon discharged at imaginary enemies

Fifty-ninth Congress.

Washington, June 6.

SENATE

The petition from the railway employees protesting against the anti-pass provision in the railway rate bill was presented to the Senate today.

Mr. Bailey, the minority leader, in announcing that he had received many telegrams said they had been addressed to him personally. For that reason he did not deem it proper to present them to the Senate.

The Senate this afternoon on motion of Mr. Daniel reconsidered the vote by which the employers' liability bill was recently passed.

On motion the railroad rate bill was then taken up.

HOUSE.

The House judiciary today by a vote of 10 to 7, postponed further consideration of the anti-injunction bill until next December. The five democrats present, with Pearre, Maryland, and Birdsall, Iowa, republicans, voted in the negative.

This action is taken in the face of a demand for a favorable report on the bills submitted by the American Federation of Labor.

By a strict party vote, the democrats opposing, the House committee on ways and means today, favorably reported the Senate resolution directing that all purchases of material for the Panama Canal be made in the American markets, excepting such articles as the President may believe the prices asked are "exorbitant and unreasonable."

The Greek Symposium.

The Greek symposium was literally "drinking together," but before the drinking fully began there was a banquet, more or less elaborate, as the wealth and taste of the host might dictate. The guests came in their best. Even old Socrates, Plato tells us in his "Dialogue" on the subject, was not above taking a little extra pains when he was invited out. Some one met him one day in the market place, "fresh from the bath and sandaled," and as the sight of the sandals was unusual, he asked him whither he was going that he was so fine. "To a banquet at Agathon's," he replied, "and I have put on my finery because he is a fine creature. What say you to going with me unbidden?"

Properly Boiled Meat.

To boil meat so as to retain the juices and soluble salts and yet cook it sufficiently it should be plunged into boiling water and boiled rapidly for about ten minutes. After this fast cooking the kettle must be pushed over to the back of the fire, where its contents will simmer gently. This tends to coagulate the outer rind of the meat so that the juices cannot escape. If meat is treated in this manner the inside will be found juicy and tender, but if the meat is allowed to boil it will be found hard and chippy, the goodness having all boiled out of it.

Britain's Oldest Office.

The oldest office under the crown is that of lord high steward, which was in existence before the time of Edward the Confessor—indeed, some authorities say that it was instituted by Offa in 757. For a long period this official was second only to the king, and the office was for some time hereditary in certain noble families.—Tit-Bits.

His Expectation.

"I suppose," said his friend, "that when the investigation takes place you will be represented by counsel."

"Yes," said the statesman, "and I suppose I'll be misrepresented by the opposing counsel."

The Nightshade.

The deadly nightshade in Italy and Spain is the emblem of falsehood. It is probable that the poisonous character of the plant had something to do with the symbolism.

He Misunderstood.

Mr. Simpson—Sam, is it true that you confiscate your neighbors' chickens?

Sam—No, sah; I fricazees 'em.

Be sure no man was ever discontented with the world who did his duty in it.—Southey.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 6, 1906.

Rescued from Niagara.

Making their way out on a shaky ladder twenty-five feet over the very brink of Niagara Falls, Fireman Thomas Conroy and Patrolman Dennis Blake yesterday rescued a man who had attempted suicide, and was about to be swept over the edge to the lower level. The slightest slip would have meant death for all three.

The ladder, resting on a ledge of rock at the river edge, was weighted down on the shore end by two score men, while the intrepid volunteers crawled slowly out to where the would-be suicide was clinging to a rock, ten feet from the roaring abyss. The man gave his name as Amos Schweitzer.

He was discovered by some negroes in the river close to the Prospect shore early yesterday. He was wading out, and the men called to him to return, but instead of complying he went out farther. Policeman Blake, who attempted to save him with a pole, was nearly dragged into the stream by Schweitzer, who was soon carried from his footing, and with a wild, despairing cry was swept toward the awful abyss, 500 feet away. Just as the edge, he was hurled against Thunder Ledge, and this he seized.

A fire truck was sent to the scene, carrying an extension ladder. This was run out over the ledge. Blake and Conroy crawled out on hands and knees till they hung suspended directly over where Schweitzer was fast slipping to death.

Fireman Conroy reached down and seized him by the collar. The man fought him but Conroy would not let go. Aided by Blake, Conroy drew the struggling form up from the torrent. Thus, in air he was carried to the shore, his rescuers being greeted with a cheer.

You cannot induce a lower animal to eat heartily when not feeling well. A sick dog starves himself, and gets well. The stomach, once overworked, must have rest the same as your feet or eyes. You don't have to starve to rest your stomach—KODOL FOR DYSPEPSIA takes up the work for your stomach, digests what you eat and gives it a rest. Puts it back in condition again. You can't feel good with disordered stomach. Try Kodol. Sold by W. F. Creighton & Co., 401 King street.

A Miraculous Cure.

The following statement, by H. M. Adams and wife, Henrietta, Pa., will interest parents and others. "A miraculous cure has taken place in our home. Our child had eczema 5 years and was pronounced incurable, when we read about Electric Bitters, and concluded to try it. Before the second bottle was all taken we noticed a change for the better, and after taking 7 bottles he was completely cured." It's the up-to-date blood medicine and body building tonic. Guaranteed. 50c and $1.00 at E. S. Leadbeater & Sons' drug store.

YES,

We Probably Have It.

A good many people make the mistake of going to Washington to get something they could buy at home, do not look for it here, just jump to the conclusion that such things are not to be had in Alexandria.

We would like to state to those contemplating purchasing a fine watch, or diamond, or other fine piece of jewelry, clock, silverware, cut glass, etc., that we have a large and complete stock of the above mentioned goods and which we offer at a lower price than is asked for the same goods in Washington.
